

SONY PICTURES RIDES EXCLUSIVE AT VIDEODETECTIVE.COM

Philadelphia, PA (September 5, 2006) –

VideoDetective.com is revving up its engines to announce a five month long exclusive feature for Sony Pictures' highly anticipated release, Ghost Rider. Nicholas Cage stars as the demon-possessed daredevil, Johnny Blaze. Based on the Marvel comic book and with superhero heavy-weights Mark Steven Johnson (director, Daredevil and Elektra) and the producers of the Spiderman and X-Men franchises, the movie is sure to be a high-octane ride that will attract a new generation of fans to the classic hero.

The first Ghost Rider was a western comic that started in 1949. It was later re-imagined by Roy Thomas and Gary Friedrich and introduced in 1972. Ghost Rider's weapons are his superhuman strength, his whip like chain, his bike that climbs up walls, his ability to control fire and his soul shriveling "penance stare".

Ghost Rider will not be laying tracks in theaters until February 16, 2007, but fans and the just plain curious can get their thrills NOW at VideoDetective.com where they can watch a VLog of the cast and crew as they work to bring the mythic hero to the screen. Each week, users can come to VideoDetective for brand new footage, straight from the sets before they can be seen anywhere else.

In case you have had your head under a rock for the last six months, a VLog is a video journal with daily or weekly installments. It is a cross between a personal journal and a documentary film. The great thing about VLogs is the 'insider's view' they give of things. This one takes you onto the set of Sony Pictures' much anticipated production so if you want to know how Nick Cage burns through the hell-raising stunts and what the actors, directors and crew are thinking about during production, this is the place to find out.

"I am personally a huge Ghost Rider fan," boasts Rhodes Mason, VideoDetective's Director of Promotion. It made my year for this to be our first major studio VLog. We already have several more exclusive lined up because we know what hard core movie fans want.

VideoDetective is the original and largest web site specializing in streaming movie trailers on the Internet. It hosts thousands of previews, actor and director interviews, behind the scenes films and now Ghost Rider VLogs!
